1. General Terms and Conditions

Flughafen Berlin Brandenburg GmbH (FBB), legally represented by the directors of the company, levy airport charges for miscellaneous services and for installation, operation and use of information technology according to these charges regulations and the general conditions specified below.

Differing terms and conditions may be applicable for particular services if available. These special regulations have priority over the general terms and conditions if opposing.

Any general terms and conditions of the airport's users, which differ from these general conditions, do not apply even if the airport operator does not object.

1.1 Airport Operator and Contact Details

The airport operator within the meaning of these General Terms and Conditions is Flughafen Berlin Brandenburg GmbH.

Responsible contacts for the different areas are given in the following sections. The responsible contact concerning invoicing of airport charges regulated in these general terms and conditions is the Accounts Receivable Department unit of the airport operator. Contact persons are indicated in all invoices and can be contacted at: verkehrsabrechnung@berlin-airport.de

1.2 General Conditions

The services listed in the charges regulation are provided on request, subject to availability of personnel, equipment and vehicles systems. Unless otherwise contractually agreed, users of airport services have no legal claim to provision of these services.

The nature, place, contents and extent of the performance are determined exclusively and definitively by the relevant service or product description. If a service is not based on a product description, the service to be provided is determined on the basis of the service content agreed separately between the parties, whereby as a general rule the airport company only owes a service which is fit for normal use in accordance with the purpose of the contract and which displays a quality which can otherwise be expected on the market.

Any airport user can order airport company services in writing. Where special application forms must be used, the airport company will make them available. Orders and/or applications are binding for the client. A contract only comes into effect on acceptance of an order/application by the airport company, whereby acceptance can be declared expressly (order confirmation) or by actually providing the service.

The airport operator reserves the right to postpone or refuse performance of services, or to cease performance of services already initiated, even after acceptance of a relevant order in cases where available personnel, equipment and/or vehicle capacities are overloaded by other operating obligations. The same applies in the case of force majeure, industrial disputes or natural disasters, which impede the airport operator's ability to perform or to continue performing services.

The respective prices published on conclusion of the contract shall apply in accordance with the schedule of charges. Prices are subject to changes at any time.

Changes to charges as well as these general terms and conditions of business during an ongoing contract relationship (continuing obligation) are notified in writing to the contract partner / liable party eight (8) weeks prior to the change. A change is possible at the earliest on expiry of 6 months following conclusion of the contract unless the parties conclude an agreement stating otherwise.

The contract partner is entitled to object to the changes in writing. If the contract partner fails to provide a written objection to the change notice within four (4) weeks of receipt, the respective changes shall be classified as accepted. If the contract partner objects to the changes in time, the contract between the parties will end at the time at which the changes would have come into effect.

The provisions and prices also apply without instruction or order if the airport company is entitled to demand reimbursement of expenses on account of actions performed without due authority.

Services or deliveries performed which are not included in this index or where "price on request" is indicated are calculated separately and must be queried beforehand from the airport company.

1.3 Charges Debtor

Charges debtor is the natural or legal person that requested or generated a service.

The liable party must ensure that all of the respective and necessary conditions for proper use and/or operation of the service ordered by the airport company are available and airport operations are not impaired by the use/call of the service ordered. In particular, the respectively valid Airport Manual must be observed.

The liable party will notify the airport company without delay of any apparent defects or damage. Within reasonable limits, the liable party will take all measures to permit detection of defects and/or damage and the elimination thereof.

1.4 Payment Terms and Conditions

Monthly payment starts on the day on which the service is delivered. The charge for the monthly payment is to be paid proportionally for the month.

If the charges are to be paid for parts of a calendar month, these charges will be calculated on a daily basis at 1/30 of the monthly charge. The full monthly price shall be charged if the contractual relationship is cancelled up within 30 days.

Monthly charges will be invoiced monthly to the debtor directly.

Charges are invoiced after availability provision of services to the invoice address named by the charges debtor. Invoices are payable immediately upon receipt in EURO to one of the airport operator's bank accounts without any deductions whatsoever for charges and/or expenses incurred. The charges are due immediately after receipt of the invoice.

Objections to the invoice can be raised – unless otherwise stated – within a month after reception, in written form to the address given. After this period has elapsed the un-objected invoice shall be considered approved. The airport operator (or its designee) will inform the debtor about these consequences before commencement of the time period.

The airport operator reserves the right, in the event of default on payment, to charge interest as well as other default damage, following section 286 and 288 of the German Civil Code (BGB).

Insofar there is no other regulation all charges are charges within the meaning of Section 10, paragraph 1 of the German Turnover Tax Act. Unless the charges debtor can provide proof that he fulfils the conditions for non-taxability or tax exemption applying to air traffic, he will also be liable for payment of turnover tax at the legally applicable rate.

It is not permissible to offset airport service charges against counterclaims within the legally recognized limits, except in the following cases:

- if the counterclaim is undisputed, ready for decision or res judicata;
- if the counterclaim has lapsed but is undisputed and had not yet lapsed at the date on which it could first have been offset;
- if the claim and counterclaim relate to the same contract for use of airport services.

Notwithstanding the provisions of items a. and b. above, offsetting is not permissible in cases where counterclaims relate to claims prior to contract or do not relate to the contract for use of airport services on which the airport operator's claim is based.

It is not permissible to plead for the right to refuse performance, except in the following cases:

- if the counterclaim is undisputed, ready for decision or res judicata;

- if the counterclaim has lapsed but is undisputed and had not yet lapsed at the date on which it could first have been offset;
- if the claim and counterclaim relate to the same contract for use of airport services.

Notwithstanding the provisions of items a. and b. above, pleading for the right to refuse performance is not permissible because of claims prior to contract or when it is based on the contract that is subject of the airport operator's claim.

1.5 Charging Procedures

Unless stipulated otherwise in the charges regulation, the minimum charge for services charged at hourly rates shall be one hour. The charges include preparation, travelling and waiting times. Time for services provided over longer periods will be rounded up to the next complete half hour.

If there is no explicit indication that the operator or driver is included in the price when machinery and vehicles are made available, an additional price will be charged for the use of personnel.

1.6 Contract Term

Contracts for which a minimum term has been agreed are renewed by twelve months if one of the contract parties fails to terminate the contract in writing with a notice period of three months to the end of the term, unless the parties agree otherwise.

Contracts without a minimum term can be terminated in writing by either contract party providing a notice period of four weeks to the end of the quarter unless the parties agree otherwise. If the end of the quarter is on a Saturday, Sunday or bank holiday, the last working day of the month shall apply.

Extraordinary right of termination:

The parties retain the right to immediate termination for an important reason. An important reason is on hand especially in the following cases:

- The debtor is in default with the payment more than two successive months.
- The liable party is in default to the airport company with a significant portion of the debt.
- The liable party is in default with the payment of a sum within a period over more than two months which corresponds with the average payment claim of two months by the airport company.

1.7 Interruptions

In the event of an outstanding payment on the part of the liable party during continuing obligations of a total of at least two monthly user fees, the airport operator is entitled to block the service to which the payment arrears relate at the liable party's expense until full receipt of payment, provided the payment claims on the part of the airport company are not disputed by the liable party. This block shall follow timely notification of same by the airport company. This shall not affect the liable party's obligation to pay the charge.

Even while a service is blocked, the liable party shall remain obliged to pay the fee agreed by contract, minus the expenses saved by the airport company.

1.8 Confidentiality

The parties are obliged to treat as confidential all information relating to the contract which is based on these general terms and conditions of business. Excerpts of or the entire offer and information contained therein may not be made available to third parties without the previous written authorization of the airport company.

This confidentiality obligation shall not apply where information, knowledge and experience

- are evidently generally known without violating the confidentiality agreement,
- were evidently already available to the parties prior to receipt thereof,
- were received from a third party without obligation to comply with a confidentiality agreement or
- were evidently drawn up independently.

For the purpose of initiation and contract performance, the airport company will record, process and use personal data where necessary. Such recording, processing and use will be carried out in accordance with statutory provisions.

1.9 Liability

The liable party shall be liable to the airport company for all damage to persons and materials caused by his behaviour or the behaviour of his employees and other agents in connection with use.

The liable party shall be liable to the airport company for damage and destruction to items provided in accordance with statutory provisions. Lost equipment or parts must be replaced by the user at his own expense. Equipment and connections may not be transferred to third parties.

The liable party will release the airport company from all third-party claims asserted in connection with performance of the task unless these third-party claims are brought about negligibly or intentionally by the airport company, its employees or other agents.

The airport company shall be liable without restriction for intent or gross negligence, causing injury to life, body or health, and in accordance with the provisions outlined in the Product Liability Law.

Without prejudice to this unrestricted liability, the airport company shall be liable for basic negligence only if essential contract obligations are breached (cardinal obligations). In the case of negligent breach of cardinal obligations, liability is limited to the foreseeable damage typical of this contract. This will also apply in cases in which the airport company assumes the custody of items if the assumption of custody is not urgently necessary for performing the task or a safe and reasonable storage alternative is available to the liable party.

Liability on the part of the airport company in the case of minor negligence for lost profits and savings shall be excluded.

The liability restrictions outlined above shall also apply to faults by the airport company's agents, representatives and employees.

Without prejudice to unrestricted liability for grossly negligent and intentional actions, causing injury to life, body or health, as well as in accordance with the guidelines of the Product Liability Law, fault-based liability on the part of the airport company is expressly excluded in accordance with § 635a BGB on account of defects already in place at the time of concluding the contract.

1.10 Final Provisions

Should any part of the General Terms and Conditions prove invalid, this shall not affect the validity of the remaining provisions. The invalid part should in that case be replaced by such valid ones that come closest to the economic purpose of the invalid regulation.

Oral agreements are not made. Changes must be in writing. This is also the case for the revocation of the written form requirement.

Only the German version of the charges regulation document shall be legally binding. Translations into other languages are provided solely for information purposes.

All contracts for provision of airport services shall be governed by German law.

Entities not registered in Germany wishing to enter into a long-term business relationship with the airport operator for provision of airport services must nominate a person authorized to receive service of notices from the airport operator or its representatives, who is resident or registered in the Federal Republic of Germany. This provision also applies in cases, where a recipient of airport services migrates to another country after commencement of the business relationship. The place of jurisdiction is Berlin.
